MORAN VOCABULARY

A Linguistic Heritage of the Moran People

The Morans — Aboriginals of Assam & Arunachal Pradesh

The Morans are among the most ancient indigenous peoples of northeastern India, recognized as aboriginals of present-day Assam and Arunachal Pradesh. At their peak, the Moran people inhabited a vast territory stretching from present-day Golaghat in the west all the way to Pangsao, Myanmar in the east — a testament to their once-great presence across the entire upper Brahmaputra frontier. The Moran language belongs to the Bodo-Kachāri language group, sharing deep linguistic roots with Kachāri, Dimāsā (Hills Kachāri), and Hodgson's Bodo (Mech). This vocabulary is compiled from Major P. R. T. Gurdon's 1904 paper 'The Morāns', read before the Asiatic Society of Bengal, June 1903.
